

GAPP has been working to honor diversity, encourage understanding, and promote inclusion since 1999.

GAPP is an all-volunteer, non-profit organization of community members, addressing topics and issues that help to create a more welcoming community.

PO Box 54476
Cincinnati, OH
45244

Website:

www.gappeace.org

Email:

Info@gappeace.org

GAPP - honoring diversity,
encouraging understanding,
promoting inclusion
since 1999

FREE Public Program
For Teens and Adults

The Real Effects of the Myth of Race

Film and Discussion

Facilitated by STEVEN M. COLLINS, M.A.

Tuesday, March 12, 2013
7:00 PM

The sciences of Biology and Genetics have found that race, as a way to break the human family into distinct groups with identifiable differences, does not exist. But the effects of this strongly-held belief touch many aspects of society, helping to shape life chances and opportunities.

The program includes viewing the acclaimed documentary Race—The Power of an Illusion, followed by discussion.

Anderson Center Conference Room
Community Meeting Room
7850 Five Mile Rd

For more information: 513-588-8391

Mr. Collins is a doctoral student of Sociology at Indiana University. During his years at McNicholas High School he was an active member of GAPP. He credits GAPP for encouraging his interest in Sociology, the study of social change.